The theatre-going public is evidently not yet tired of the Trip." Mr. Hoyt has gone to his country seat at Charlestown, N. H., where he will remain until his latest piece. "A Milk White Flag," is written. The members of Rice's "1492" company consider themselves very fortunate. Among the entertainments arranged for them during their vacation is a big clambake. On Wednesday afternoon they are going to Manhattan Beach by invitation of Sousa's Band and the Long Island Railroad Company. The expectation of seeing some of the pretty girls disport in the surf will doubtless add to the attendance at the Beach on that day.

A hundred yards of promenade, or even less, will suffice. The pedestrian, if he is engaged in conversation, stops often with the exchamations:

"Hold! Listen!" or "That's just what I say!"

At an interesting point in his story he taps his companion on the breast and stands facing him for rive minutes at a time, discoursing fluently.

One day at a dinner an English resident was commenting on this peculiarity to a number of Corsicans.

"Yes," replied one, "I think the Ajaccians can beat the Parisians. The best lounger I ever met was N.—, of the bar and we did the distance in two hours."
